Re: Leonard and Patty Gregerson, stolen-cattle claim; claim number A090314Poo

Dear Mr. DeFea,

I write on behalf of Leonard and Patty Gregerson. As you know, they submitted a claim for stolen cattle. Farm Bureau denied the claim.

I ask you to reconsider Farm Bureau's denial. Your letters of February 17 and March 24, 2015, recite certain policy language but doesn't say why the claim is invalid. Those letters do say the Gregersons notified Farm Bureau of a shortage upon taking inventory, but the letters don't say the company relies on that as a basis for denying the claim. I don't want to guess about that basis.

The Gregersons provided some additional facts in their letter of May 3, 2016. You then reiterated Farm Bureau's denial in your letter of May 20, 2016. But that letter again does not say why the claim is invalid.

I've reviewed the policy carefully, in conjunction with the facts. I've paid particular attention to the policy language quoted in your letters. But I find no basis for denying the claim on these facts.

Again, please reconsider Farm Bureau's denial. If the company continues to deny the claim, please at least explain why — explicitly.

Yours,

Gregerson - 000084
